

THE STAR'S DAILY PICTORIAL PAGE

THE EVENING STAR, WASHINGTON, D. C., WEDNESDAY, MAY 24, 1922.

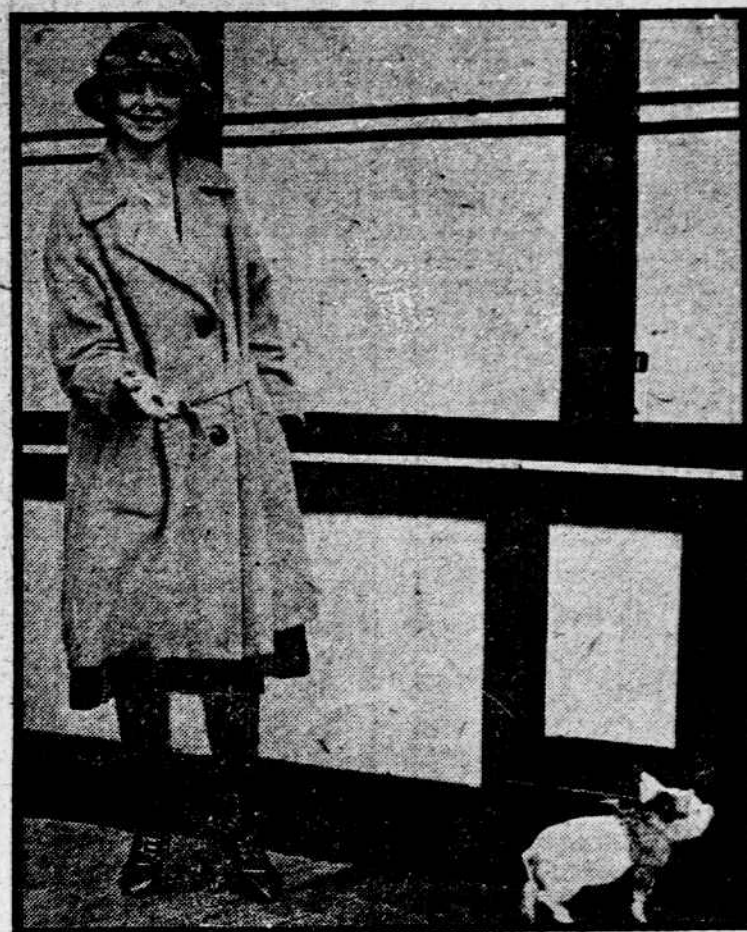

Have you a little radio in your bag? So small are some of the radio sets now on the market that they can easily fit into a small bag. Even a stroll can be enlivened by songs that the little instrument gives forth. Miss Gertrude Erlitz and Leo Freed, while taking a walk in New York city, decided to have a little music for a change, and all Miss Erlitz did was open her bag and "listen in."

Copyright by Keystone.

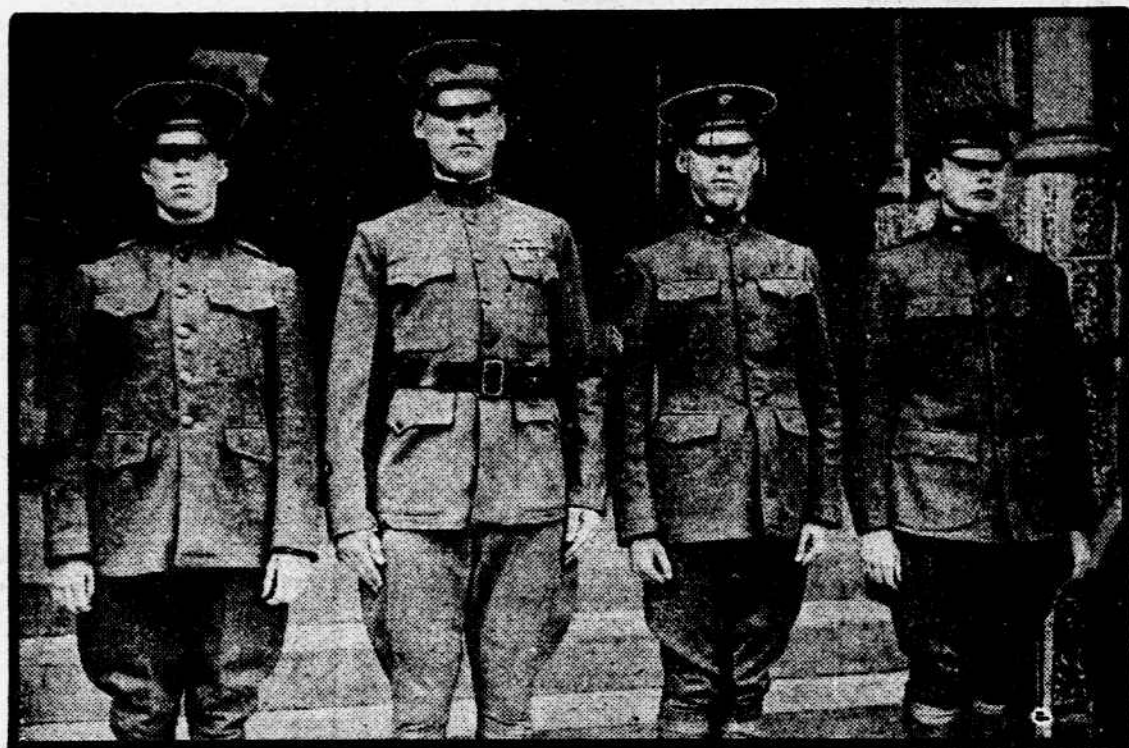

Members of the Washington Real Estate Board photographed at the Union Station just before they boarded a train for the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, May 31 to June 3, at San Francisco.

National Photo.

Now the little Piggie on the leash for the flapper. The little squealer, all dolled up with a pink bow, accompanied his mistress down the Coney Island boardwalk and caused a sensation in flapper circles.

Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

Honor cadets and cadet major of the Georgetown University Reserve Officers' Training Corps, who held their final drill and review yesterday afternoon. Left to right: J. B. Brennan, '25; Joseph A. McDonough, '22. Cadet major and honor graduate, Wilbur Cass, '24; Charles L. B. Lownds, '23. These students won the Chamber of Commerce prizes for general efficiency.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing.

Gov. Robert A. Cooper of South Carolina, known as a "real dirt farmer," who has been appointed a member of the Federal Farm Loan Board.

National Photo.

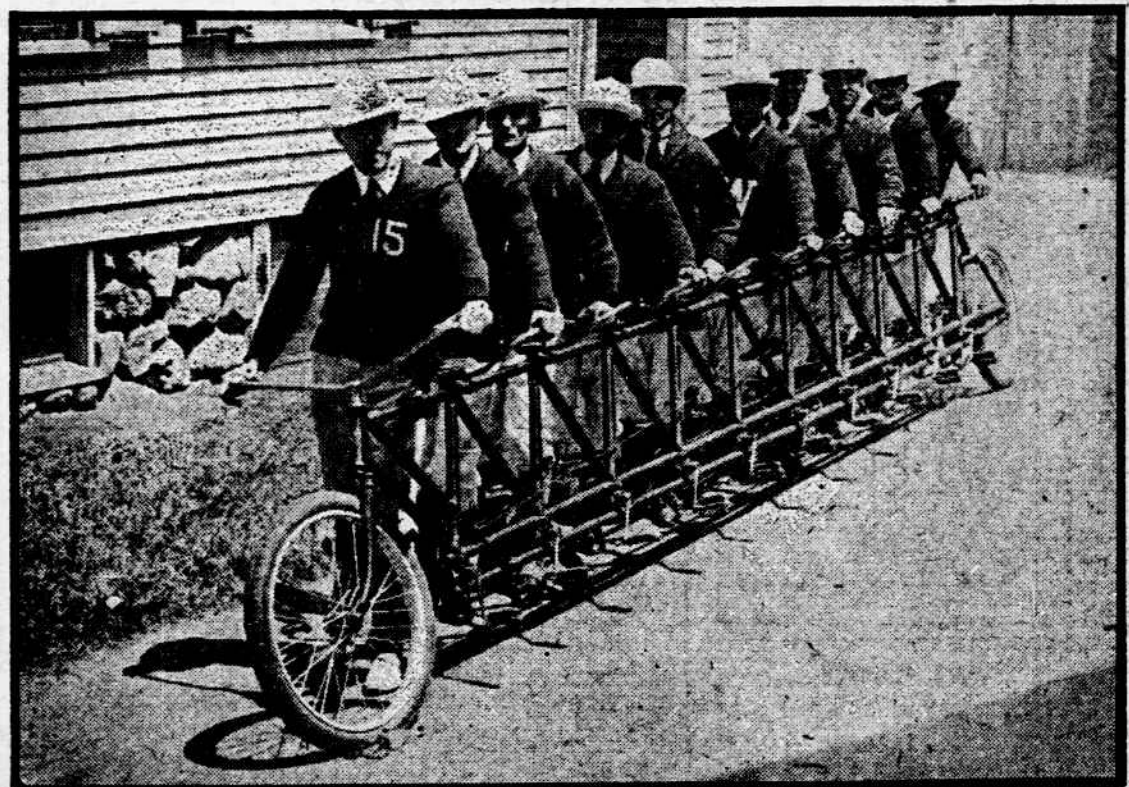

Maj. Peyton Gordon, District Attorney, who will prosecute the war fraud cases, if indictments are brought in by the special Washington grand jury.

National Photo.

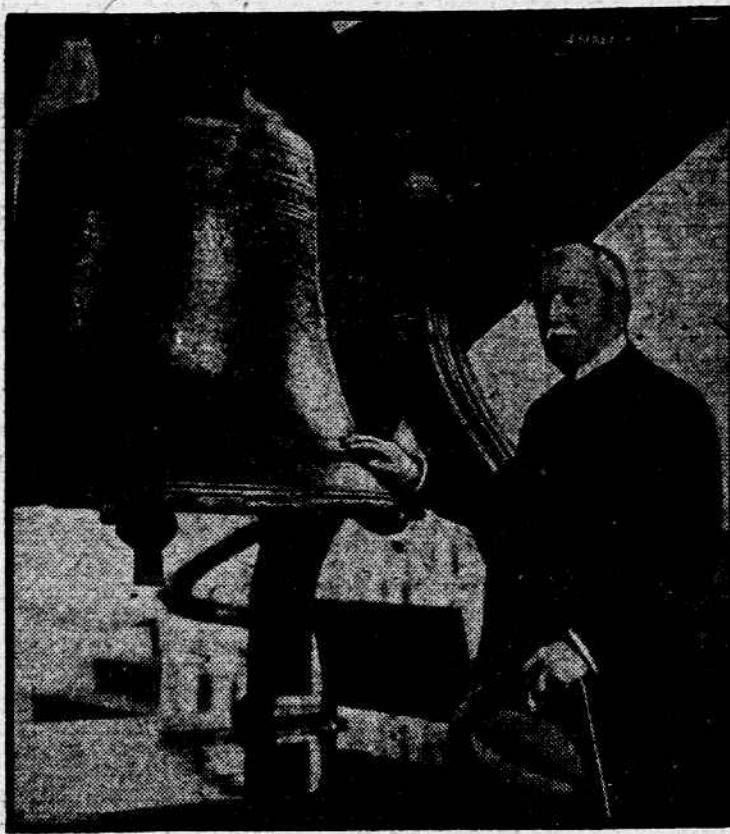

Francisco Latour, new minister from Guatemala, leaving the White House after presenting his credentials to President Harding. Third Assistant Secretary of State Robert Woods Bliss, accompanied him.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing.

The newest thing in the bicycle line is really an old idea—at least, it was utilized to a certain extent some years ago. The machine carries ten riders and is supposed to get up a speed of sixty miles an hour. It belongs to a Waltham, Mass., man.

Copyright by Keystone.

Marshal Earl French of the British armies touching the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, where, a hundred and forty-odd years ago, were cut the bonds that separated England from America.

Copyright by Underwood & Underwood.

Members of the Winged Foot Golf Club, rendering a burlesque on the much abused "Civic Virtue" of New York city hall fame. The burlesque came as a climax to the barbecue and outing given by the members of the club announcing the opening of the club's new golf course at Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Copyright by P. & A. Photos.

The coronation of Mrs. Harry J. Samones of Roanoke, Va., as queen of the Virginia Historical Pageant, being held this week in Richmond, in which episodes of the United States history from revolutionary times were portrayed.

Wide World Photo.

Lady Astor, M. P., leaves aboard the steamship Aquitania, after a six-week visit in the United States. She carries back with her a memento of her trip, an American "flapper doll."

Copyright by Keystone.

Delegation of fifty residents of New Jersey, who called on Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen yesterday afternoon, headed by Austen Colgate, who presented the senator with a petition containing seven thousand names, asking him to be a candidate for re-election.

Copyright by Harris & Ewing.